

5 Simple Steps to Setting Your Financial Priorities Straight

It's been a recurring thing around my office over the few years that I have been in business. The people that I come across know that they should pay more attention to their finances but once they first go home with their list of to-do tasks, something else gets in their way.

They get busy with their lives and end up not doing what is probably one of the most important things to tackle: how to maintain order in their financial life. One of the things that I wanted to incorporate in my services when I envision MoneyCoach was the accountability that proper coaching brings in one's life. Prioritizing what you need to do to continue building your finances is very important. It's not that money is everything, but so much of our lives depends on how we manage money. Therefore I pride myself in making sure that my clients prioritize a few hours every quarter, when we are scheduled to meet, to go over their next step. Because I feel confident if that they have proper financial habits, they will be financially successful and will be able to get so much more out of their lives.

How to Set Your Financial Priorities Straight

1. Determine your goals:

The first thing to consider when you are learning to set your financial priorities is to determine the goals you would like to achieve. Would like to get out of debt? Are you planning to buy a new home and need to accumulate a down payment? Or, do you want to make sure you are on your path to financial freedom???

2. Get Clear:

Once your head is clear on what you would like to achieve, make sure your goals are measurable. Give yourself a number that you need to get to reach your goal and create a specific plan on how to achieve it.

3. Learn how to balance your priorities;

Chances are you have many goals. Make sure you balance your priorities between living a great life now and into the future. Your shorter-term small goals should enable you to reward yourself from the hard work and sacrifices you have taken when keeping your finances in order. Don't just cross them off. Enjoy them fully. You deserve it!

4. Keep Your Focus

Stay focus on the prize!!! Everyone's mind begins to stray after a while, especially when you tighten your belt. Just make sure you stay enthusiastic about what you are trying to accomplish. If you're not jazzed up about your goals, you will end up losing interest. Keep it up by remembering what's really important to you.

5. Get Someone to Help

Have someone to help you stay in gear. Nobody ever said that you need to keep your financial struggles to yourself. Have someone in your life that you can confide to about these things. Preferably, someone that has been there before that would like to mentor you getting financially secure.

MoneyCoach was Conceived to Help People Prioritize Their Life

Personally, as I am growing older I am figuring out that the things that I purchased with my money when I was younger didn't make my life more enjoyable. Now that I am prioritizing my finances, it is giving me a better idea of what I value in my life. My current goals will enable me to do more of what I feel is important and change the lives of the ones around me. That is what MoneyCoach strive for, helping others manage their money so that they can live a fuller life.

IMPORTANT DISCLOSURES: MoneyCoach LLC and/or Patrick Traverse offer Investment advisory and financial planning services through Belpointe Asset Management, LLC, 125 Greenwich Avenue, Greenwich, CT 06830 ("Belpointe"), an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). Registration with the SEC should not be construed to imply that the SEC has approved or endorsed qualifications or the services Belpointe Asset Management offers, or that or its personnel possess a particular level of skill, expertise or training. Insurance products are offered through Belpointe Insurance, LLC and Belpointe Specialty Insurance, LLC. MoneyCoach LLC is not affiliated with Belpointe Asset Management, LLC. Additional information about Belpointe Asset Management is available on the SEC's website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov.